Steve Claridge is a former English footballer who played more than 800 matches for 15 league clubs and several non-league clubs over the course of a 24-year playing career.

Steve appearance for Bournemouth in December 2006 at the age of 40 gave him the distinction of being one of a very select few players who have amassed 1000 career appearances. His career spanned over a period of 22 years, scoring more than 250 goals and he pulled on the shirt of over 20 clubs.

Steve has proudly been voted 'fans' Player Of The Year' at all the clubs in which he played for the whole season.

Here are some of the clubs that Steve Claridge has played for:

Fareham Town, Bournemouth, Weymouth, Crystal Palace, Aldershot, Cambridge United, Luton Town, Birmingham City, Leicester City, Portsmouth, Wolverhampton Wanderers, Millwall, Brighton & Hove Albion, Brentford, Wycombe Wanderers, Gillingham, Bradford City, Walsall, Worthing and Harrow Borough.

Steve Claridge is now a leading pundit for BBC Sport, where he is a regular face of both The Football League Show and Football Focus. He is a respected and popular co-commentator and summariser for all football coverage on BBC TV and Radio 5 Live.

Steve has a regular column in The Guardian, which covers his scouting report on many of the games up and coming young players. His other national media work has included Sky Sports, Setanta Sports, Central Television and Channel 5.

In 2009 Steve released his updated autobiography, 'Beyond The Boot Camps', which follows on from 'Tales From the Boot Camps', his entertaining and successful autobiography of his life outside the Premiership.

Dominic Woodward... set out on his comedy career young and wide eyed back in early 2001.

Now with many years' experience on the UK circuit he's what you might say "safe pair of hands". Some people have commented saying that "He's cheeky, charming, full of energy and hilarious". Dominic weaves side-splitting stories about his life and tells belly aching jokes that hit the mark with all audiences.

There's a naughty twinkle in his eyes but his act is warm, personal and inoffensive. Dominic is always in demand as an act and compere. He regularly performs in comedy clubs all over the UK and abroad. He's also great for sportsman's dinners and corporate functions and can adapt his act to any audience and he can be squeaky clean if needed.
